

Role of NGO

Akrity jha

Date of Submission: 01-11-2024

Date of Acceptance: 10-11-2024

Nongovernmental organisation (NGO's) as they are called in common parlance our organisation which are involved in carrying out a wide range of activities for the benefit of underprivileged people and society at large as the name suggests NGOs work independently without any financial head of the government although they may work in close coordination with the government agencies for executing their projects and use are composed of experts with years of experience in executing social welfare activities before rolling out project detail analysis all the situation is done and possible solutions are contempt plated collaboration with civic agencies and other government agencies at district state and even national level at times is done to carry out the work and use not only go on the ground to address these issues they also undertake massive campaigning activities to generate awareness on this issue in today's time and Jews are effectively leveraging the power of social media to disseminate information about their work and reach more and more people

Importance of NGO in India

INDIA has made rapid progress in the social economic spare in last seven decades millions have been brought out of poverty life expectancy has soared up literacy rate has almost tripled and people have better access to healthcare services however given the vast nationals of India both in terms of demography an area and its social cultural diversity millions are still benefit of a decent life even today numerous people struggle to get pieces such as health shelter education and nutritious food the benefit of India economic progress has been not been uniform in nature there is exam pit economic inequality there is where endures come into the picture their job is to plug the gap left by the government by improving the lives of the most marginalised community in India NGO's undertake a variety of activities most of which are aimed at improving their socio economic status of communities with limited means from providing direct benefit like distributing nutrition feed to malnourished children to enabling and empowering people like making a community lies the importance of sending their children to school the work of NGO has a far reaching impact in helping underprivileged and deprived people add in life so I am working with kind beings this is Andrew in Delhi I worked there for the unprivileged child for their education for the food distribution for cleanliness Drive etc.